Our Stone Masonry team have over five decades of experience between them. A combination of precision engineering tools and hand craftsmanship allows them to create beautiful surfaces from quartz, quartzite, granite, or marble. We are experts in the fabrication and installation of Dekton, Lapitec and Neolith. These products require rare skills of craftsmanship and enable us to create truly stunning features like custom made sinks from Deckton. Granites are treated before they leave the production line and again after installation, making sure that each customer receives the perfect care instructions, so their new surface remains timeless.

FIRES AND HEARTH'S

A fireplace brings any room to life and is the heart and soul of your home. A fire creates an emotional connection, with a calming influence that helps with relaxation and wellbeing. There is nothing quite as cosy as sitting in front of a fire when it's cold outside. The fire hearth surrounds the base of the fire and adds protection from the embers emitted from solid fuels. Wood burners sit on a granite fire hearth which provides a suitable solid flat base for stability.

Granite is a natural product and by its very nature is great at absorbing the kind of heat produced by fire. The durable surface is scratch resistant and has a dramatic effect on the overall look of your fireplace. Pure black granite with its variety of finishes or a spectacular veined stone will give a beautiful overall effect.

Quartz and Marble can be used for decorative modern electrical and wall mounted fireplaces. They create a beautifully modern finish with the benefit of multiple colour choices and effects. However, should not be used for solid fuel fireplaces as quartz will scorch easily and discolour over time.

Lapitec® perfectly combines modern and elegant aesthetics with the functionality required by each room in the home. The resistance to high temperatures and natural, warm appearance of sintered stone make it the perfect material for custom-designed, elegant fireplaces.

Transform your living space with a unique fireplace or hearth. Call 01462 742 627 or email sales@bluepearl-granite.com and we will be happy to advise you.
